A Ctear Case.

As we predicted, the act of the Senate in seating the Republican Senators from Montana has brought upon the heads of the majority all the abuse that the Democratic tongue and pen are capable of, and that is saying a great deal. What were the facts? The contest hinged upon the vote of precinct 31 in Silver Bow county, a precinct which does not contain a single inhabitant. Without it the Republicans carried the county, and their delegates to the Legislature were clearly entitled to their seats and to vote for United States Senators. This precinct 34, however, which does not contain a legal citizen, turned up in the returns as having cast 177 votes, 174 of Tryou'vegot a pain or ache or a bruise. turns as having cast 177 votes, 174 of turns as having cast 177 votes, 174 of ... It may be well to note in this connection that, while the Democrats in the Senate voted solidly against the seating greater than for the same period last

The effect the Democrat probably bases this start- of such a move, it is urged, would be to make good soldiers when properly trained in the civilized methods of warfare. There are many arguments in favor of the idea and very few against it. In other parts of the world, the governing powers have found the plan of enlisting natives in the military service where the British forces are largely made successful, and there are no more relia ble soldiers in the world than those of

The suppression of these facts by the "Water Lilies." He said: "The word lily is applied to many plants incorrect-

lily is applied to many plants incorrectly. It is applied to the lily of the valley, which is no more a lily than is the onion. The word is also used for the plant styled 'calla lily,' which is not a lily at all, but only a very close relation to the 'Jack-in-the-pulpit.'

"The water lily is divided into eight general and thirty-five or forty different species. Of the true water lily there are two species which are exclusively Asiatic. The leaves of these range from four to ten inches in diameter, are round, and are so repellant of water that drops do not rest on their surface at all, being prevented by globules of air. Our common water lily has a flower four inches ton that, while the Democrats in the Senato voted solidly against the seating of the Republican contestants, they did not all do so because they believed the two Democrats were entitled to the seats, but because they favored the holding of a new election in Montana as the best method of determining the matter. Among this class of Democrats was Senator Kenna, of our own State, who voted with the Republicans on the resolution declaring the Democratic contestants not ontitled to seats.

Indians in the Army.

Secretary of War Proctor's proposition to conlist a thousand Indians in the army seems to meet with greater favor than it was supposed it would at first. The effect of such a move, it is urged, would be to help solve the very bothersome Indian question. The educational influences would undoubtedly be gratifying, and there is no doubt that the Indians would make good soldiers when properly the frog lily, which grows in shallow pools. There are two kinds in Connecticut, the common large kind and a smaller, rarer kind. I have seen this latter in the Shetucket river, near Willimantic, and it is also to be found in some portions of the Housatonic, and also at a place in North Haven.

"The largest water lily known is found in the lagoons of Central America. It was not named until 1837, when Dr. Lindsley, of England, named it in honor of his youthful sovereign, Victoria Regina. Seeds were taken to England in 1850, and a fittle later to Massachusetts, and in both cases were lilies successfully grown." The leaves of this lily are immense, being from four to six feet in diameter, and they have been found as large as twelve feet in diameter. The leaf has gorgeously tinted upturned rims and the floating power is very great. A half-grown child has rested upon it in perfect safety. The flower is twenty-three inches in diameter, ranging from pure white to pink and then to crimson. The lily is now being grown successfully by Mr. Sturtevant, of New Jersey. The second lily in size is the lotus. There are only two species of this genus. One is found in Asia and Africa and the other in this country. The American lotus has been growing in a pond in Lyme, in this State, for a century at least. Its flower is pale yellow. There are great lagoons in Wethersfield and Glastonbury in which I am certain this lily must at one time have grown.

"Most of these water lilies may be grown easily in a tub kept in the cellar during the winter and the garden in the spring. There is no reason why the cultivation of lilies should not be much more general than it is."

Deafness Can't be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure Deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the intammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the nucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case
